Philips TruFlight PET-CT

Specialized Imaging Center

PET-CT (Positron Emission Tomography - Computed Tomography)

Philips TruFlight PET-CT provides superb image quality as well as improves patient's comfort by reducing scan time. PET-CT scanning is an efficient method for detecting many different cancers, monitoring tumor progression or planning cancer therapy. It offers unique information to identify many different cancers by one examination.

CT (Computed Tomography)

CT produces cross-sectional pictures of the bones and soft tissues inside of the body. CT scans creates more detailed images than ordinary X-rays. It is useful to get detailed 3-D image of certain parts of body, such as soft tissues, abdomen, and the lungs. Philips 128 channel CT is featured by high resolution, fast result, and low dose.

MRI (Magnetic Resonance Imaging)

MRI visualized internal structures of the body by using magnet not radiation. It is used as an extremely accurate method of disease detection throughout the body. In addition, it provides valuable and accurate information about soft tissues and bones of body.
